

SCHOOL DIRECT TRAINING ROUTES

We regard the unsalaried route as a two year journey, in which Year 1 provides the Initial Teacher Training and Year 2 offers training and support to you as a Newly Qualified Teacher. This PGCE route (Level 7) with Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) is internationally recognised.

The Salaried School Direct awards QTS (England) and is a great route for graduates with prior experience in the classroom.

TRAINEE FEEDBACK

“I have learned so much from the outstanding teachers I have observed and worked with and have really appreciated all of the support that I have received from my mentors as I have trained to become a teacher.”

Our dedicated teams of Teacher and Professional Mentors are enthusiastic, experienced practitioners who are there to support you throughout your training with us.

Why teach with us?

Our partnership of schools, led by the Gateway Teaching School Alliance (London), comprises a group of primary and Special schools all judged to be good or outstanding by OfSTED.

We offer you unique opportunities to experience placements in both Enfield and Hertfordshire schools all found within wonderfully contrasting communities. Trainee teachers who have completed the course with us this year are now joining our schools as NQTs. If you are successful in training to teach with us, we will also offer you your first job.

Additional training and support

Here at the Gateway Teaching School Alliance we offer you additional training and support. As well as the University of Hertfordshire training, we provide our own training to further develop your confidence and understanding. You will benefit enormously from this additional training, learning how to put theory into practice; developing effective learning environments; meaningful assessment; differentiated planning; the teaching of reading; EAL and SEND. Our trainees have found these sessions to be enormously valuable, impacting both their confidence and success in the classroom.

School Placements

You will be allocated to a host school in either Enfield or Hertfordshire, depending on your preference. It's this variety and diversity that enables the Gateway Teaching School Alliance to offer our trainees a unique and tailored training experience. You will have an opportunity to complete a 4-6 week teaching experience in a contrasting school and also to undertake a short placement at Parkwood Hall residential Special School.
